This attitude of the faculty was agreed to at its meeting on Tuesday, but the announcement was withheid.

committee on Privileges and Elections, Professor Walter M. Wolfe, who was a teacher in Mormondom and a member of the church until very recently, was today subjected to a severe cross-examination by A. S. Worthington, counsel for the Senator.

A large number of letters which had been writtlen by Wolfe to members of the church were put into the record to show that he had not made complaints of the conduct of Benjamic Cluff on the Mexican expedition, as he had testified in direct examination.

He denied cnarges by counsel that ho had been intoxicated in several public places and that he had expressed contrition because of his refusal to pay tithes. Mr. Worthington will call a large number of witnesses to discredit Wolfe.

"GREAT MAJORITY."

On re-direct examination the names of a number of residents of Provo were read to the witness and ten of the controlling interest in the Indian Crystal Salt Company. REFORM WORK AT WASHINGTON

SOCIETY'S TEMPERANCE EFFORTS.

Last evening at the First Presbyter ian Church Rev. O. R. Miller, of Washington, D. C., field secretary and legislative superintendent of the National Counsel then took up the statement to the effect that Miss Olsen had not told usic Petersen of the torn condition of cr undergarments.

PERJURY SOMEWHERE.

| Dows:
| "The National Temperance Society was organized in 1865 by some of the foremost Christian men of the country, Hon. William E. Dodge, the famous Christian merchant and philanthropist." Hon. William E. Dodge, the famous Christian merchant and philanthropist of New York City was its first president.

"The society is nonpartisan and non-sectarian.

"For forty years the society has been furnishing ammunition for all who have been battling against the drink evil. It has published wholesome books for the library, papers for the family circle, pamphlets for workers, and tracts for the masses. It has prepared circle, pamphlets for workers, and tracts for the masses. It has prepared concert at the SADDLE ROCK Cafe and issued at great expense over 2200 every evening, from 6 to 8 and 10 to 12.

different publications and printed and circulated over one billion pages of temperance literature, and in this and its home missionary work has distributed nearly $2,000,000."

Mr. Miller then told of many good heavy pleady nased by Congress 2008 laws already passed by Congress along all lines of moral reform.

He said that his society was co-operating with others in pressing the following important measures before Congress and the country.

BILLS BEFORE CONGRESS. (1) A National Inquiry Commission bill to investigate the effects of liquor on the moral, industrial and political offairs of the nation. (2) A bill restrictaffairs of the nation. (2) A bill restricting the sale of patent medicines containing a large per cent of alcohol. (3) A national interstate anti-cigarette law. (4) A bill to stop the issuing by the government of federal liquor tax receipts in no-license or probibition territory. (5) A bill requiring internal revenue collectors to furnish certified copies of federal liquor tax receipts to any one requesting it. (6) The Henburn-Dolliver interstate liquor bil. lative superintendent of the National Temperance Society, gave an address on "Good Tidings From the National Capitol," in which he told of the great work done by his society to educate public sentiment on the temperance question and to get good laws passed by Congress.

Rev. Mr. Miller spoke in part as follows:

"The National Temperance Society The National Temperance of the submission by Congress to the various control of the latin the sale to any one requesting it. (6) The Helphurh-Dolliver interstate liquor bit to protect no-license towns against outside rum sellers. (7) The McCumber bill to stop liquor selling in old soldiers' homes and in all buildings owned by the United States Government. (8) A bill to prohibit the sale of liquor in the District of Columbia. (9) Prohibition as a condition of State-houd for the Indian Territory. (10) The submission by Congress to the various States of an amendment to the United States of an amendment to the office States Constitution prohibiting the manufacture, sale or importation of all intoxicating liquor.

MISS LUCY MAY,

APARMENT HOUSE IN

NEW YORK,

NEW YORK, Feb. 8. -- Fire swept through the large apartment house at 297 Ryerson street in the fashionable section of Brooklyn, early today, drove scores of the tenants to the street half dressed and cut off the escape of four families. These latter were rescued four families. These latter were rescued by firemen and taken down on ladders from the third and fourth floors. All escaped injury except from exposure.

Flames were seen on the third floor by a policeman just before 3 o'clock and when he had sent in an alarm he aroused some of the tenants while others were pouring out of the house.

Cut off by finmes, which spread very rapidly, were C. H. Hanford, an instructor in Pratt Institute; Mrs. E. D. Hadley and her son, John Hadley and J. H. Storey and his daughter, Mary, on the fourth floor, and E. B. Robinson, his wife and their son Edward on the third floor.

The building was a mass of flames on one side when the fire apparatus arrivone side when the fire apparents after ed and hidders were run up at once to the windows of the apartments where the penned-in ones stood shouting for help. They were all taken out rapidly but in sleeping attire only, and suffer-cause of Cruel Treatment of One.

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.-A special to the Herald from Newburg, N. Y., says: Sympathetic fits is a nervous malady that has attacked six members of a family of twelve children, who live near here. One of the boys in the family, which is that of Terrence Clark of East Goldenham, is the cause of this strange malady, He is now in a hospital here. Realizing that the boy was afraid of a kicking mule that was stabled near the farmhouse, a driver named Lynch placed him last Christmas night in the stall with the mule and then locked the slable door, leaving him in the dark. The lad's cries attracted attention and he was rescued in a state of collapse, his mind being affected. Lynch was arrested and the boy was put under a severe cross-examination for two hours during which time he was obliged to rehearse the story of his fright. At the close he went into convulsions which have daily continued. Five other members of the family, all younger than the boy, are now experiencing the same affliction. When one goes into convulsions another follows and at times there are six in fits.

It requires a strong man to hold one of last Christmas night in the stall with times there are six in fits.

It requires a strong man to hold one of the girls in these paroxysms. The authorities were appealed to yesterday and by advice of a physician those afflicted will be separated for a week or two in the hope that after their norves have become quieted they may yield to medical treatment. Physicians say that they fear that if the malady is not checked the order fearly will hely in a similar the entire family will be in a simila 1892, Mrs. Sneden left home with her four-year-old daughter, Rosalle, and went to the home of ex-State Senator Simon Hawkins, at Jamesport, L. l. Dr. Sneden applied to the Supreme Court in January, 1893, for a writ of habeas corpus, and upon the return Justice Bartlett made an order that the doctor must be permitted to see his daughter Rosalle once a week. Two months later Dr. Sneden sued his wife for legal separation. months later Dr. Sneden sued his wife for legal separation.

Mrs. Sneden in her sworn answer ad-mitted that on several occasions she had abandoned her husband, but de-clared that he had treated her with great cruelty.

Under the influence of their daughter, Rosalle, the Snedens were reconciled, and on June 27, 1893, Justice Hartlett granted an order of discontinuance in the separate proceedings.

PATTERSON TALKS. Mr. Patterson was promptly recognized by the chair. He began with a few words of a personal nature, saying there was nothing he disliked more than injecting his own personality into public questions, but at times such a course was necessary. He said he had supposed that his former remarks on the Santo Domingo treaty would be passed over as inconsequental, but the action of the Democratic equipments of the Democratic equipments of the Santo-American bed made caucus last Saturday had made it evident to him that he fell directly within the censure of that caucus. He said he had made up his mind previous to the caucus, and as it had thrown no new light upon the question he had not been impelled to change his position.

CALLED A BOLTER. He said he had been called a "bolter" and a "White House Democrat," and that a New York paper had gone so far as to say that there had been an understanding between himself and the President and that an understanding about patronage and the Senator's re-election had been reached. In refutation of this charge he said that he had never made but one request for official appointment by the President, and in that case the re-quest was refused. The last interview he had with the President was a month ago, he said, and pertained to the forest

He says that the Realty Syndicate has taken water wrongfully and which the Contra Cos-ta had exclusive right to use.

Much of this statement was brought out by questions from Mr. Morgan.

Mr. Daniel asked Mr. Patterson if he knew of any other Senator who would vote for the treaty, but Mr. Patterson did not reply. Instead he referred to the charge made that he had deserted his party and that he was in the half of making party changes. He admitted that he had left the Democratic party in 1802 rather than support Mr. Cleveland. In this connection he referred to Mr. Tillman's course in his own State, and Mr. Tillman interrupted with the remark that he "had eaten as much crow in submitting to party dictation as any man living."

"Did you like it?" asked Mr. Spooner, and Mr. Tillman replied: "No, but I took it."

The digression caused a general laugh, which increased when Mr. Patterson remarked that he had eaten some crow, but less than that taken by Mr. Tillman. COERCING VOTES.

COERCING VOTES.

"I don't hesitate to say that the Sanator or member who surrenders his own convictions in the hope of patronage, and that the President who promised it, are, to say the least, to be condemned, he said, adding that such a course was nothing less than bribery. Such a course was infing that such a course was infing less than bribery. Such a course was mothing less than bribery. Such a course was infing the same as securing votes for venal considerations.

Quoting the different sections of the preamble to his resolution, Mr. Patterson commented upon them. Referring to one of these sections, he said there is notther constitutional nor statutory authority for twenty-five or thirty Senators to attempt to coerce the vote of one of their colleagues. Such a course is calculated to deprive a State of its proper representation in the Senate, he declared, and asked:

ago, he sald, and pertained to the forest reserves. In that matter he feit that the President had transcended his authority and he had so informed the President. In that case, also, he had failed in his mission. There had been an emphatic exchange of views and a sudden termination of the interview, and he had not since met the chief executive except in a casual way. He confessed to a warm friendship for the President and he felt that in the struggle he was making on economic lines he deserved support.

LIKES THE PRESIDENT.

"I admire and commend him for his brave position." he said. Mr. Patterson said that he expected the treaty to be amended.

"I don't object to the main features of the treaty," he said. "but if the treaty is not amended, as I think it should be,

Darling states that it is his business to go along Sausal creek and see that the flow of water into the pipes is not surface water flowing down Sausal creek.

Additional affidavits were filed by Arthur L. Adams, hydraulic engineer and formerly manager of the company, from January 1, 1901 to 1903. He says that the water of Sausal creek is necessary for the use of the Contra. Costa Water Company an uniformed divided seven-initia interest in the property. What Would You Do if You Were In the Plight of Nellie Dale?

By HELEN WARWICK

When your purse is full of cein and you walk your clothes fit just right and you walk down the street, greeting an acquaintance here, or chattling with a friend there, with the prospects of a pleasant home and a good dinner awaiting you, why, the world doesn't seem such a bad place after all—now does it? Money and good clothes and a host of acquaintances do give such an air of assurance. But just pleture yourself stranded in a strange city, a perfectly strange city, a perfectly strange city, a perfectly strange city, a perfectly strange city, and perfectly strange city in a city like the comic good out through the grated doors and out into God's which street I saw a string down the excited your strange city which mental good line feet with the street I saw a string down the excited your strange city which so more one little fellow bustled up, stated up, stated

Probably at the question your mind hatches up a lot of clever feelings and bright schemes for replenishing your purse, but I think just what Nellie Dale. the young girl who, losing parents and money, applied to the local police for protection, said to me is only too true; "You think you'd know how it would feel to be all alone without one cent? Well, unless you've been there I don't think you do. How DID I feel? Why, I just wanted to die!"

HERE'S THE CAPTAIN. HERE'S THE CAPTAIN.

Yesterday afternoon, just after lunch, I slipped into my coat, pinned on my hat, adjusted my fure and started for the police station. I arrived at the little house, between the City Hall and the health officer's office, and, shoving open the heavy door, entered. An old man with a wooden leg was there before me, however, volubly offering his wares and explating upon their intrinsic value—68-pecially to police officers. He, however, was hastily hurried out. Then my turn came and I, being confronted by a tall man in uniform, asked if I mught see Miss Nellie Daie. He smiled, bowed and I could almost see the great iron doors swinging open to let me pass into Miss Dale's presence. But no! He turned, waved his hand and indicated to me "The Captain," who reclined in a revolving chair, his hat tipped back—the picture of comfort. cture of comfort.

"Hum!" He gazed at me meditatingly, cleared his throat ence more, removed his toothpick, removed his hat and then. pricking up his cars in hopes of a clue as to what was to be done with the girl —police officers do so love to sit back in their chairs, tilt back their hats, chew their toothpicks and have information just walk into their presence. It's such a saving of energy, you see.

But then, as I said, he pricked up his "But then, as I said, he pricked up his ears and mutered, "Any friend of hers?" And I murmured "No, TRIBUNE reporter," and then indeed the heavy from doors swung open and I, after passing through door after door, which swung back and locked after us, came to the "Detention Room." Such a hard door to unlock! Surely the detention room would be a fitting place in which to dewould be a fitting place in which to de-tain the worst of criminals and I won-dered what sort of a person I should see. As I passed through the door I caught As I passed through the door I caught a glimpse of a black dress and hat and motioned for the captain to leave us. He was more than kind and presented me as "a lady who would like to talk to you." and then disappeared into the coryou," and then disappeared into the cor-ridor. I took one good look at the girl and then sorambied up on to such a high stool and, dangling my feet, gazed about the room. A litle bed with a yellow and red and purple quilt, a chair, my high perch, the girl and a great iron door that locked—and that was all, positively

Well there I sat perched up on my high stool, and for a moment I hardly knew what to say, so I just looked at her and she at me. She has such a nice, clean look, dressed in black and wearing stasses and two such pretty dimples when she smiled. You couldn't sit and icok at a girl that way and not amile, and when I smiled so did she. Then I said, "Why are you staying in here? Little Girl's Obstinate Case of Eczema - Instantaneous Relief By Cuticura - Little Boy's Hands and Arms Also Were a Mass of Torturing Sores - Grateful Mother Says:

"In reply to your letter I write you my experience, and you are privileged to use it as you see fit. Last year, after having my little girl treated by a very prominent physician for an obstinate case of eczema, I resorted to the Cuticura Remedies, and was so well pleased with the almost instantaneous relief afforded, that we discarded the physician's prescription and relied entirely on the Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment, and Cuticura Phils. When we commenced with the Cuticura Remedies her feet and limbs were covered we commenced with the Cuticurs Remedies her feet and limbs were covered with running sores. In about six weeks we had her completely well, and there has been no recurrence of the trouble. "In July of this year a little boy in our family poisoned his hands and arms with poison cak, and in twenty-four hours his hands and arms are a mass of tortuning sores. We used only the Cuticura Remedies, washing his hands and arms with the Cuticura Scap, and anointed them with the Cuticura Ointment, and then gave him the Cuticura anointed them with the Cuticura Unit-ment, and then gave him the Cuticura Resolvent. In about three weeks his hands and arms healed up; so we have lots of cause for feeling grateful for the Cuticura Remedies. We find that the Cuticura Remedies are a valuable household standby, living as we do twelve miles from a doctor, and where it costs from twenty to twenty-five dol-lars to come up on the mountain. it costs from twenty to twenty-nee col-lars to come up on the mountain. Chamberlain's Proposal to Balfour.

The basis of a settlment of the mal-entendue existing between Fories under Balfour, proposed in Joseph Chamberlain's letter, s worthy of examination, for it displays the skill of an able tactician. he shadow of a crown provided Chamberlain is permitted to wield he sceptre. Chamberlain says he will agree to recognize Balfour is the leader of the Conservative-Unionist party if Balfour and his ollowers will accept Chamberlain's tariff policy and make it an article of party faith. Under this arrangement Balfour's leaderthip could be only nominal, the real power would rest with Champerlain, for the voice of authority is always the prophet of a policy. And it is evident that if Balfour assents he will, in the eyes of the British public, be enlisting, by special inducement, under the Chamserlain banner.

It is rather significant in this connection that the Chamberlain organs refer to the aggregation heretofore dubbed the Conservative-Unionist party, as the Unionist party. The tail has begun to wag Conservative prefix has been cut off, leaving nothing but the its present form .- San Francisco Monitor. Jnionist as a party designation. And Mr. Chamberlain is the sole eader. The shark has swallowed the whale.

All Chamberlain wants with Balfour at this time is as a at's paw to aid him in getting control of the election machinery of the Conservative party. He desires to be recognized by the Primose League, as Disraeli was, as the political general of the arisocracy and the privileged classes. What the Jew radical did in the ast century the English radical, trader and parvenue though he be, an do-or thinks he can do-in this We shall see. There is no ibler man in the British public today than Joseph Chamberlain, and so more adroit political strategist. He is burdened with neither cruples nor principles and he appeals to trades unionism on one and and to the prejudices and interests of the landed aristocracy on the other. His proposition to Balfour is the song of the spider o the fly.

The police still display a strange reluctance to enforce whe ordinance forbidding the blocking of sidewalks and using them for wagon yards and storerooms. The blockading continues, although he attention of the Chief of Police and the Superintendent of reets has been called to instances of continued flagrant violation the ordinance. Why this peculiar apathy? Why is the law so erless in some instances and so strong in others? "What's the stitution betwixt friends?" said Congressman Tim Campbell to sident Cleveland. No need to ask that question in Oakland, the "pull" is stronger than the oath of office.

Congressman Gillett has wired his friends in Humboldt county hat he is willing to be entered in the Gubernatorial race. He nay think differently when he finds his name among the "also rans."

Jacob H. Rus continues to make trouble for the President and cule for himself by planning the political future of Mr. Roosevelt teiling the newspapers all about it. Only the other day he stirred up a racket by naming the President as a candidate for a hird term. He has now come to the front with a proposition to un Mr. Roosevelt for mayor of New York when he retires from he White House. The man is silly and a mischievous nuisance. His eagerness to shine in the reflected light of the President leads iim to talk and act like a fool.

The report that William R Hearst has formed a political alliance with Charles F. Murphy, the Tammany boss, is being diligently cirrulated by Mr. Hearst's enemies. Their testimony is far from con-:lusive. If the statements of his enemies could be relied on Mr. Tearst would be convicted of every crime in the calendar, but the vitnesses, unfortunately for themselves, cannot make their stories lang together.

DISGUISES OF IRISH NAMES.

The changes of the old Celtic names which have followed the estitution of foreign English for the national tongue in Ireland a subject which has drawn attention in connection with the recent wival of the latter. It is an interesting one for Americans who esire to trace the origin of the population of the Republic. While serman, Italian or French proper names pretty commonly indicate heir source with sufficient clearness, a very large number of Amercans of Irish race bear names often erroneously counted English.

The changes are partly due to translations of names that refer o professions or objects from Irish into English. Thus Gowan or MacGowan, and MacIntire have been commonly turned into Smith end Carpenter. In others, they are approximations in English to ames in which the Celtic pronounciation is difficult to strangers. ton for O'Sesnan and Bradley for Brollaghan, belong to this The process has been going on in Ireland itself for more than a century, and has been continued extensively in this country

How extensive the process has been was pointed out by Dr. Hyde twelve years ago from his own experience. In Connaught he Business Office and Publishing House, 413-417 Eighth St., Oakland, found Shanahans turning their name to Fox, Trahy to Foote, O'Honeens to Greene, and MacTiernans to King, by supposed translation of meaning. MacRory has been moulded to Rogers, Hennessy to Harrington, and Kinselagh to Kingsley by sound alone. Even a man like Carleton, the Irish novelist, changed his real name he protectionist following of Chamberlain and the remnant of the of Cairellan, and Hardiman that of Hardagain for sake of a supposed better sound in English. The last motive was the same which has turned the German Steenweg into Steinway and the Kickerbocker It is a proposal, in short, that Balfour continue to wear temporarily Cosejemans into Queensmans. Gilson for Mulgilsinin and Baldwin for Mulligan are peculiar changes for which it is hard to account on any ground.

The list given by Dr. Hyde is long and curious. Gillespie has become Bishop, MacTaggart Priestman, Macir, Short and Shortall, Gillamerry, Merryman, O'Beirne, Byron and Gillaree, King. It is hard to recognize the Gaelic origin of Hughes, Gray, Vickers, Victory, Somers, Shirley, Hyland, Hayes, Moss, Long, Norton and ache from which I had suffered for Salmon, in the original Mackey, Culreevy, MacFiachra, MacNebo, some years, but none of them gave Soraran, MacSorley, O'Hillan, O'Hea, Queenahan, O'Longan, Mac-Naughton and O'Braddan.

These changes, however, Dr. Hyde has found in Ireland itself. In this country similar ones are recorded. The Fields of New England are descendants of the "Irish Papist" Darby Firldagh, menhe dog. When the anti-Home Rule Liberals, headed by Chamber-tioned by Governor Winthrop in 1640 as first explorer of the New ain, the Brights and the Marquis of Hartington broke away from Hampshire White Mountains. Dr. Hyde was informed that most Hadstone and Harcourt and formed an alliance with the Tories, led of the American Chaunceys are descended from a Maryland anby Salisbury, the aggregation was styled the Conservative-Union- cestral O'Shaughnessy. NAUGHTY BOYS VISITCOLLEGE GIRLS

BEAVER, Pa, Feb. 7 -- President Arthur Staples, of Beaver College, threatens to bring suit against the sons of half a dozen prominent citizens of Beaver because the boys have been detected visiting the young women in the college building, contrary Night before last President Staples entered the main building of the college unexpectedly. Lights were suddenly extinguished, and there was a stampede. The president declared that with young men and women, and that their faces to prevent identification President Staples caught one of the boys, but he broke away and only his hat was left. It contained his name, and on the strength of this information will be made. .

Professor Cadwallader, who joined the president in the attack, was standing under a window when it was opened by some one who dropped a champagne bottle on his head. The faculty will try to ascertain where the bottle came from.

TREATMENT FOR COLLAPSE I'ROM TRYANS

TO THINK

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.-Life has been so full of trouble for seventeen year-old Katle Buch, of 51 Java street, Williamsburg, that she has not been able to write the incidents of the last few days in her diary, as she bas done for years. She promises to fill the blank pages soon and it will prob-

Wednesday, Jan. 17-This has been a painful day for me. I am not un derstood by mother and that makes everything so hard to bear. Jack met ine in the hall after dark and we were having a most blissful time when mother appeared. She does not like Jack. I cannot understand her aversion, for he is so big and handsome. Mother shouted, "Leave my daughter alone and clear out of here!" Of course, Jack was not frightened, but he hurried away. Mother weighs nearly 300 pounds.

TO FRIGHTEN MOTHER.

I thought I would frighten mother. It might make her understand me better if she thought something terrible was going to happen to me. I found a bottle of toothache medicine and swallowed the contents. Then I ran to mother and told her I had taken poison. I said she had treated Jack so mean I did not care to live. She was most frightened to death. I twisted and squirmed until she was afraid I was going to die. Then she did just the wrong thing; she sent for a policeman. I guess I was born under an unlucky star. The policeman sent me to the Williamsburg Hospital and I was held as an attempted suicide. I never had the least idea of killing myself. I was told I would have to go to court when I got strong enough. I decided to stay in the hospital long as possible.

Thursday, Jan. 18.-I am sure now that I was born under an unlucky star. All day I have tried to make the doctors believe I was very sick, but they told me I was well enough to go to court and would have to leave in me. How humiliating for a young woman! I wonder what the judge will say?

UNLUCKY DAY.

Friday, Jan. 19.—There is no longer any doubt in my mind about Friday being an unlucky day, and that I was born under an unlucky star. The tears fall as I write. Oh, the mean Judge I had to face! He heard both sides of the story, and I could see he had little sympathy for me. Mother discovered that it was the toothache medicine I swallowed on Wednesday, and she told him about it. Then he showed how horrid a man can be. "Take your daughter home and give her a sound spanking," he said. "There must be no make-believe about it. It must be done by a forceful laying on of handsor, if preferable, a hair brush or your slipper, will do. Report to me o the morning of January 22 that you have carried out the court's order." MOTHER PLEASED.

Mother actually looked pleased. She thanked the judge and said she would execute the order as soon as she got me home. I had a reluctance about accompanying her. You see, my baby brother has the measies, and I was afraid the noise might disturb him. I told this to mother, but she said she guessed the baby could stand it if I could. It is useless for me to try to tell more of what happened. Certain it is that mother did her duty in every sense of the word. She will be able to report to the court with a clear conscience that she complied with Magistrate O'Reilly's order.

I wonder why Jack did not help me out? Maybe he thought it best a stay away. Mother might have spanked him, too.

IS MARRIED BESIDE HIS MOTHER'S BIER

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Feb. 8-A tale of romance, mixed mes from Saundersville, Scituate, where on Sunday Charles Russon was married to Miss Florence Edwards beside the dead body of his mother.

Mrs. Sarah H. Henry, Mr. Hudson's mother, had long been a suffe from rheumatism, and Miss Edwards, whose home was in Scituate, had been for some time helping her with the housework. Mr. Hudson, who is thirtynine years of age, is the head of the house and kept a home for his meti at the Hudson homestead. Some time ago he became smitten with the charms of Miss Edwards, who is only seventeen years old, and, the sentim being reciprocated, the couple had planned to be married the past week.

In the meantime, however, Mrs. Henry was not as well as usual, and though not considered dangerously ill, required so much care and attention that the securing of the license was put off a few days. Finally, however one day last week, Mr. Hudson, with his young bride-to-be and his pretive mother-in-law, presented himself at the home of Town Clerk Heary H Potter and secured the license. On the following day Mrs. Heary sudd

Every boxer of any prominence in the ring has a certain following that is of the opinion that he can beat any man in the business at his special weight, and it may be that I am just as mistaken in my belief that Joe Gans is the verseatest fighter at his weight in the world, as nine times out of ten the admirers of some other puglitss are. BERKELEY, Feb. 8.—Olie Snedigar has announced his candidacy for the important position of graduate manager at the University of California. He is one of the star athletes of the University, perhaps the greatest all around athlete sever developed here.

Snedigar's opponent is also to be an ex-athlete, W. A. Powell, of the class of '02. Snedigar is an '05 man.

The place of graduate manager is now filled by Ezra Decoto. The news of his retirement was contained in an announcement to the students hast week. He has held the place several years. He is a lawyer who says his business takes up all his time. The graduate manager ship pays $1200 a year.

If an athlete is named as Decoto's successor, it will be quite a change from the present regime. Both candidates have taken prominent positions in the University during their undergraduate days, especially in athletics. Both have been interactly associated with the University during their undergraduate days, especially in athletics.

versity in Brooklyn, of which former Comptroller Edward M. Grout is the father and chief advocate, is now to be pushed forward with renewed vigor. The committee of one hundred citizens of Brooklyn which was appointed over a year ago to push forward the movement held a special meeting year against the stock of the corporation so merged to an amount at least equal to four per cent per annum upon the entire capital stock.

Superintendent Kilburn of the State Braking Deputtment was at first inclined to oppose the measure, but an amendment suggested met with his approval and the bill so amended will be reported favorably.

The amendment provides that the merging company shall assume the obiligations of the company to be merged. It was said that the bill anticipates the merger of the Chicago and Alton Railway Company, which was the holding company. The bonds of the former, amounting to about $25,000,000, about $5,000,000 being held by savings banks of this State, will still be legal if the bill becomes a law the legal if the bill becomes a law the legal if the bill becomes a law the reported the proposed merger would illegalize the bonds of the merged company aiready held by savings banks.

HAYWARD, Feb 8-John Beck, of this his mother some time ago, and who has since put some of it where it would do him the least good, reaped some of the affects of his enterprise Wednesday morning, for when he came down town before 7 o'clock in the morning he discovered, as he supposed, four lawyers in the drug store of R. Reld, who seemed about to die as a result of their confinement there, and in the goodness of his heart he prepared to liberate them. As it was before opening time and the store was locked, he got a hatchet and was about to break in the door when Night Watchman Frank Pimentel stopped him, and told him to go home. He went away, but in about an hour, after the store was open, but while the door was still shut, he came by again and still seemed to see the same men in there in the same predictment, and he again went to their rescue with the hatchet, trying to cut the door away. He was then arrested by Constable W J. an independent union of stone cutters, hundreds of whose members are employed on building construction, makes a number of walkouts practically certain.

The excuse for the threatened strike is unusual. Its basis is the rivalry between the two unions of stone cutters. For several months efforts have been made by the International Stone Cutters' Union to swallow its rival. Failing to accomplish this, building mechanics of ten or more allied unions have been brought into the fight. AT DEL MONTE

UNCAS TRIBE OF RED MEN TO ENTERTAIN AT WHIST

Local Fraternal Organizations Planning Many Festive Evenings for Near Future.

The chief topic of interest in Uncast Tribe at this time is the whist tournament on the twelfth of this month. Moltke A. Schafer who has been so successful in conducting former tournaments for the tribe, has full charge of this affair and has promised to sureass those heretofore given. James B. McKeon is to again have supervision of the floor, having as his assistants of the floor, having as his assistants Dr. George G. Reinle, Sophus Nelson, R. B. Ross, George W. Travis, H. A. Whitney, G. Harry Wagor, Frank C. Senram and others. Door prizes dancing to follow card play, perfect arrangements and management, and other popular features will contribute the veryone's comfort and satisfaction. Prizes will be exhibited in Taft & Pennoyer's windows till the 12th. Ticketo and fifty cents each, and can be obtained from members of the tribe and from Ernest Rehor, 966 Washington street.

On the 2d a most stitting council of On the 2d a most stitting council of the brothers was held in the wiswam of the tribe. The competition in attendance and in securing new members brought out an unusually large number of the tribesmen, and resulted in the filing of two applications—from Stanley J. Cameron and Archie L. Foster. The applications are coming in rapid-ly as the amended by-laws have been returned without change by the law and usage committee, and the membership usage committee, and the membership fee will consequently be raised to fif-teen dollars on the first of March. The adoption degree was conferred upon palefaces James E. Colston and James C. Rosewarne
